Bonn—To Mr. and Mrs. Eli Depew, near Ironton, Mo., on Wednesday, January 21, 1903, a girl.

W. J. Tual is building a handsome residence in Arcadia, on the lot adjoining that occupied by his brother, "Bud" Tual.

A. Nemlich is in Sikeston to-day, on business connected with Southeast Missouri's finest steam bakery. —Popular Bluff Republican.

G. A. Buckley last week purchased the Willowbrook Farm from Mrs. D. A. Pilley. He will put a fine residence thereon at an early day.

There are never any empty houses in Ironton, and the man who builds houses of the right kind for rent will find them paying investments.

The old furnace at Pilot Knob is being torn down and will be sold for old iron. One by one the glories of the old place have passed away.

FOR RENT—February 1st, the brick building south of Gay & Kindell's store now used as a pool room. Apply to Dr. C. L. Blanks, Pilot Knob.

The people are demanding better roads and they will have what they want. The road question is going to be a "paramount issue" from now on.

Representative Horn has named his brother, Zeno Horn, as the legislative clerk from this county during the present session of the legislature. There were sixteen applicants for the place.

The many friends of Wm. Stevenson at Des Arc will be sorry to hear that he has not been in good health for several weeks. We hope to be able to report a early improvement in his condition.

Mr. Goddard of Boone county was here last week looking for a farm. Mr. Van Nort, of the firm of O'Brien & Van Nort, took him out to Bellevue, and he expressed himself well pleased with "the lay of the land."

Some one entered a back window of W. P. McCarver's saddle shop while the proprietor was at supper Tuesday evening. Mr. McCarver thinks that his early return frightened the would-be burglar away, and so far as he can ascertain nothing is missing.

That was a fine sermon delivered by Rev. Ritchie, Sunday evening. His text was from St. James, and the assistance was that faith and works should go hand-in-hand. A very fair congregation was present, comprising more than the usual percentage of men.

A meeting was held in Bellevue recently and seven hundred dollars subscribed for improving the roads from Bellevue to Ironton and from Bellevue to Iron Mountain. They should receive every encouragement from the county court in such a laudable undertaking.

This is the day of low prices, bargains and hustling for trade. The recorder of Reynolds county advertises that he will record all deeds presented to him within the next fifteen days for the extremely low price of fifty cents each. This is certainly a new departure.

The road question should receive most serious consideration from the county court. A plan should be inaugurated to commence the construction of good roads—roads that will last. Let a little be built each year and it will not be a great while until we will have good roads all over the county.

The first rails laid on the electric railway were put down on last Wednesday morning at the DeLassus terminus and by Saturday the steel crew had almost reached the gravel road, just west of the old toll-gate. The spikes used to fasten the rails to the ties gave out Monday and during the lay-off the spike-drivers took occasion to strike for higher wages. However the matter was adjusted without trouble. Two wagon loads of spikes were secured from the Southern Missouri railway on Tuesday and work progressed as usual.—Farmington Times.

I cordially endorse this from the Iron County Register: "What the farmers of Southeast Missouri need more than anything else is good roads and the man in the State Legislature that will get a bill through that will give them these good roads will win everlasting favor with them." Good roads will do more toward securing reasonable railroad freight rates than any other form of competition.

Prosecuting Attorney Van Nort, at the instance of the New York Life Insurance Company, issued a warrant last Monday charging A. P. Vance with embezzlement. Mr. V. has been acting as agent for said company for over a year, and the shortage is alleged to be about $1000. He was in St. Louis when the warrant was issued, and it was forwarded to the sheriff there, who made the arrest Tuesday. Next day Sheriff Polk and Constable Marshall went up to the city, returning with the prisoner the same evening. The day for preliminary hearing has not yet been set.

J. H. Cline, the defaulting treasurer of Wayne County, was turned over to the authorities last week by his bondsmen and is in default of renewing his bond, was committed to jail, where he is now waiting for the February term of the circuit court when he will be tried. Mr. Cline has claimed all along that a shortage did not exist and if it did, there was some mistake not his fault. He is now in jail and will be tried at the coming February term of circuit court. What the results of the trial will be no one can tell. Before he was arrested no one stood higher in the community than J. H. Cline.—Wayne County Journal.

The older REGISTER readers will remember the famous Salsbery mule case tried and re-tried in the courts here, until the costs were piled up to the tune of about $800. The mule colt at issue was worth $40 at a liberal estimate. The Arkansas Back-Log has a companion-piece for it: "The third trial over the six-bit turkey was held at Albertha Saturday with the same result as the two former—a hung jury. It will be tried again in Circuit Court. The cost now totals up $78.50 and by the time it goes through Circuit Court it will be twice that amount. The parties most concerned, whoever they are, are surely tired of 75-cent law suits."

The sad intelligence was received here last Thursday evening of the death that morning in Great Falls, Montana, of Mrs. Lula Leslie, nee Fairchild. Mrs. Leslie had been in poor health for some time and for several weeks had been in a hospital. A few days before her death it was thought she was getting along very nicely and hopes were entertained for an early recovery. But there came a sudden change and then the end. The REGISTER assures the bereaved husband in Montana and the sorrowing relatives here of its profound sympathy in their bereavement. Lula Fairchild was one of the sweetest, loveliest girls ever reared in the Valley and that she is called thus early in life is one of the mysteries of the Infinite that the finite cannot comprehend.

"The Herald" is in receipt of an interesting little volume entitled, "Legend of Sunset Mountain," containing a prettily portrayed legend of the Indian tribes of the mountains of North Carolina. "Owanetsee," an Indian maiden of the Ocoee tribe, is the heroine and "Iwishyo," son of the chief of the Tuskees, is her favored lover, although the two tribes were deadly enemies. "Iwishyo" fell captive to the Ocoees and was to be put to death, but without which no story is a complete success, all ended well and the Indian lovers were happily married and the two tribes were at peace. The author is Uncle Eli D. Ake, editor of the IRON COUNTY REGISTER, and one of the ablest newspaper men and most forcible writers in Missouri. Mr. Ake has our thanks for the copy of his interesting publication.—Houston Herald.

A surprise was tendered Dr. A. S. Prince last Friday evening, Jan. 16th, being the anniversary of his birthday. About fifty officers and older members of the Baptist Sunday School, marching in a procession to his home, carrying with them hot coffee, refreshments and a lovely Morris chair. The surprise was a complete success. After the excitement was over and quiet prevailed, the chair was presented in a most pleasing and gratifying manner by Rev. Geo. Steel. His well chosen remarks voiced the sentiments of all present, and the Dr. was made happy by the kindly feeling and appreciation shown of his labor of love in the Sunday School, of which he has served as superintendent for eighteen years. His response expressed his appreciation however, and after a social evening spent in singing and chatting, the party wended their way home, wishing him long life and many happy returns of the day.

ONE OF THE PARTY.

Another chapter in the Crawley-Jennings trouble developed Saturday when William Jones, who married Mrs. Samuel Crawley on last Wednesday evening, and his brother, Joe Jones, were arrested on the charge of killing Charles Jennings on the night of Dec. 21st. The charge was based on the statements of two Crump boys, and Mrs. Ellis Coffman, who were at Mrs. Crawley's home on that night. These three stated that the two Jones brothers were present at Mrs. Crawley's that night and, hearing a noise in the yard they went out and shot four times the first time, and then went out again and fired seven shots, and at the last shot someone groaned and lay wounded. The authorities heard nothing of it until last Saturday. The Jones' were arrested and held in jail until Monday when they were released on bonds of $3,000. The sheriff searched for the body on Monday but found no traces. The preliminary hearing, which was set for Wednesday was not held and the Jones brothers were discharged. Mr. B. H. Marbury received information Wednesday afternoon that Jennings is working at Hickman and has been there since Dec. 24th.—Farmington Times.

The following, taken from the last issue of the Elvins Argus, recalls the experience (somewhat different) of an officer of the Orphan's Home at this place about a year ago: "A most piteous scene saddened the hearts of all who saw the departure of the north bound train on Saturday morning. The three children of Mrs. Amanda Brown, a widow living in Elvins, were taken from the home of their mother by Sheriff Murphy and Marshall McCabe and put on board the north bound train to be sent to the Children's Home, an institution in St. Louis. Rev. W. H. Fiedler, an agent of the society, was here a few days ago and learning of the destitute condition of the mother and her alleged incompetency and moral unfitness to take care of the children, called on her with a view of obtaining the little ones voluntarily. Failing in this, he employed legal process to wrench them from the mother as desired. The eldest of the children, a womanish little girl of fourteen, succeeded in eluding the officers twice before her final capture, and showed a marked disposition to stay at home, but the others, a boy of ten and a wee tot of two, seemed content with the situation and chuckled merrily at the thought of a ride. But the woe of the mother when the train pulled out was a most depressing spectacle. The cries of mental pain and shrieks of anguish that came from the poor woman when she saw her darlings hurled onward out of her sight and life forever were enough to melt a heart of stone."

A strange tale comes from over the borders of St. Francois county, involving, marvelous as it may seem, an editor in a crooked scheme. The REGISTER can scarcely credit it, but prints the astounding story as told by our brethren of the Lead Belt News, so that our readers may see what might happen if editors were not of the truly good: "J. F. Kimberlin, the windy individual who has been managing the Elvins Argus for the past two months, has gone hence. He struck for greener pastures Saturday night. There are numerous people in Elvins who regret his departure and will remember him for a long time. Saturday afternoon Kimberlin executed one of the boldest swindling schemes that could be conceived. Just before the Elvins Bank closed for the day he deposited to his credit a slight draft on the Jefferson Bank of St. Louis for $50, which proved to be bogus. He then wrote a dozen or more checks for amounts of $5 and $10, payable to himself, and proceeded to get them cashed at the stores and business places about town. Nearly every merchant and business man in Elvins was made a victim. He would enter a place and ask if the proprietor could accommodate him by cashing a small check. Every man approached was unsuspecting enough to get caught save J. P. Butts, the druggist. Mr. Butts was asked to cash a $25 draft, also on the Jefferson Bank, when it struck him that he had better not give up the money and he accordingly refused. Kimberlin also borrowed the watch of Joseph Bollin before leaving. He parted on the late south-bound train Saturday night, and is supposed to have also taken an unpaid-for typewriter or two with him. The departed editor was a married man. His wife drove to Bismarck Saturday afternoon and departed for Louisville, Ky., or at least, had her trunk checked for that point. She was driven to Bismarck by Scott Ritter, who has an unpaid livery bill against her husband who was to have paid it the following Monday. Inquiry by long distance phone to the Jefferson Bank at St. Louis brought the reply that Kimberlin was unknown to that institution. The following is a list of Kimberlin's victims: J. T. Evans, $10; Frank Byington, $5; W. H. Miller, $10; Dr. Reese, $10; Abe Klein, $5; J. C. Westover, $10; F. J. Henton, $10; Mart. Williams, $5. There may be others. The publishers of the Argus have been left in the lurch because of this unexpected caper, and this week's issue is therefore gotten out under difficulties."

The young folks were all out buggy riding Sunday.

AUNT ABBY.

In Memoriam.

It is with sorrow and regret that the Parish of St. Paul's has to record the passing away of the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Fairchild. A faithful member she always was previous to her leaving Ironton, and the work done for the church will always reflect to her glory. The prayers of the church will be offered for the repose of her soul in Paradise.

F. H. ROBERT, Rector.

Married.
St. Louis, Mo., Jan. 15, 1903.
It will be quite a surprise to her many friends to learn of the marriage of Miss Ida Belcher, one of Graniteville's most popular and well respected young ladies, to Mr. John McDonald, which occurred in St. Louis in December, 1902. Miss Belcher had been visiting her uncle in this city since the first of October last. She is a small lassie with deep blue eyes and dark brown hair. Mr. McDonald spent last summer in Graniteville, where he met Miss Belcher. On his way to Denver, Colo., a month ago he stopped over to see his intended bride and they then decided to get married at once. Of course, within two hours they were man and wife, Mr. McDonald leaving for the west that same evening, as business would not permit him to stay any longer. Mr. McDonald's parents live in Vermont, but he has been living in the west for the past six years. Mrs. Jack McDonald will follow her husband to Denver Jan. 17th, where they will make their future home. The young couple have our best wishes for a long life of happiness and prosperity.

Hinks-Seeley.

At the residence of G. M. Hinks on North Third street at 1:30 Thursday afternoon the words of the marriage ceremony were said by Rev. Barber of the Baptist church by which Herbert F. Seeley of Milwaukee, Wis., and Miss Gertrude F. Hinks of the same city became husband and wife. The wedding was a quiet home affair, after which the happy couple left for Omaha on their wedding trip. Best wishes of a host of friends go with these estimable young people.—Missouri Valley Times.

Obituary.

Died, near Ironton, Mo., Jan. 14, 1903, Daisy Lashby, of consumption. Daisy was born March 5, 1889, in Iron county, Mo., and was aged 13 years, 10 months and 9 days. These were the dates connected with a short, bright life. Her illness extended through a period of six or seven months, but calmness and patience marked each day of suffering. Very often she spoke of certain things she intended doing when well again, and always expressed in every word and action such resignation and willingness to wait patiently for that time to come, that an older Christian than herself has sometimes left her bedside ashamed of her own weakness. In Daisy the prophecy that a little child should be a leader was fulfilled again. God gave her not the rosy years of health again, but an abundant entrance into His Kingdom. Celestial. She was a Christian, and to the Christian death has no terror. While our hearts are filled with grief over the separation, we know God hath done all things well. It is sweet consolation when we stand by loved ones passing away, to know that ere death comes to them, their head is already pillowed on the breast of Christ. Then how it softens our bitter pain to be able to say "Father, Thy will be done."

A few years ago Daisy joined the church at Hazel Glen, and it was here that her funeral was preached by Rev. A. M. Robinson, after which her remains were taken to the Methodist cemetery at Caledonia and laid by her father to await the resurrection.

Des Arc Items.

The roads have been frozen for the last week, and lumber, hubs and hoops have been moving lively.

No one in this section has gotten ice yet, and it looks like we will not get any.

Wm. Stevenson, of the firm of Stevenson Bros., has been quite sick for three weeks, but is better at this writing. He is still confined to his room.

Henry Sutton is also quite sick with pneumonia.

Stevenson Bros. have employed Frank Wray as salesman.

There is quite a demand here for wood to be shipped to Des Arc. E. W. Graves has sold all he had on hand—over 100 cords. Wallis & Lovelace are shipping four cords a week to the railroad company. They have 448 cords on hand, already received by the railroad company.

Shears has put a mill over on Camp Creek, below Harve Wilson's.

Ed. Johnson, while digging on the railroad where there was a wreck over a year ago, found $2.35 in silver; one of the dollars was nearly all melted, but the other you could see what it was very well. It is supposed to have been in poor Bradley's pocket, who was killed and burned in the wreck, only one piece of his back bone being all that was found of him, which was put in a cigar box and sent to the widow.

T. McAllister's child was buried here Saturday. They were living in St. Louis. They formerly lived on Peach Tree Fork, Wayne county. ISAAC.

Bellevue Items.

Since my last letter to the REGISTER nothing of particular interest has transpired in this locality.

Health in this valley is unusually good. I have not heard of a single case of sickness in this immediate locality for two or three months, though there are a few cases of pneumonia reported on East Fork. Though there have been so many sudden changes in the weather since the first of November last, it is somewhat singular that the status of health is so very remarkably good.

Rev. J. H. Calvert filled his regular appointment at the Second Baptist church on the first Sunday.

W. R. Read made a business trip to Graniteville Friday.

John Edmonds closed his school near Hogan Friday last.

J. T. Patterson closed six months of his school at Sawyer's Mill Friday last, leaving two months yet to teach. The pupils are interested and are doing good work.

Leta Hawkins went to Pilot Knob Sunday last, where she will spend the winter and spring with her brother, Prof. Jesse Hawkins, who will give her instruction in a few of the higher branches of study. Leta is a bright young lady, and we wish her success.

Now that the Legislature has convened, it is time for the representatives of the so-called normal schools to get in their lobbying for the usual appropriations. Then comes that august Farmington asylum for another large appropriation. Two living examples of a parasite.

Mrs. Hawkins visited us last week. The Second Baptists gave a box supper Saturday night. I did not attend, but reports say that it was a grand success.

Trade with most merchants appears to be very poor, though the hub business gives employment to a number of people in this locality. But people do not spend their earnings so freely as they did a year ago. The effect of the drought of a year ago will be apparent on business for several years to come.

In 1901 most of the farmers sold, at a sacrifice, nearly all the live stock that they possibly could do without, and, of course, had some money to spend, which they were almost compelled to spend for feed and provisions. This year, while most farmers have plenty of feed and provisions, not many of them have any surplus live stock to sell to bring the necessary amount of "spending money." Hence trade is not nearly so good as it was a year ago.

Hartman & Read pay out from $75 to $80 a day for hubs received on their hub yard, near E. M. Logan's mill, and I am informed that nearly every dollar is paid in cash, if desired. Fifteen teams were used daily last week delivering hub logs from the yard here to Iron Mountain.

Dr. Farrar made a professional call on East Fork Wednesday last. P.

Resolutions of Respect.

WHEREAS, Death has again invaded our ranks and has removed from our midst our beloved Brother John Sylinger, therefore as an expression of sympathy and respect for the family and friends of our deceased brother, be it

Resolved, That by reason of the death of Bro. Sylinger this Lodge has lost an earnest faithful member, the community an honest, upright citizen and his family a wise counselor and devoted father.

Resolved, That the heartfelt sympathy and condolence of this Lodge is hereby tendered to the family and friends of our deceased brother.

Resolved, That as a further mark of our respect the charter of this Lodge be draped in mourning for thirty days; that these resolutions be spread upon the minutes of this Lodge, and copies thereof be furnished the press of this city and a copy to the family.

The past week was a beautiful one for mid-winter. The roads are much improved.

Rev. White, of Caledonia, preached at Cedar Grove Sunday at 11 A. M.

The revival continues and much good has been accomplished. Over a score have professed a hope in Christ, and twelve united with the church. May the good work continue.

Mrs. L. Simms, who has had an attack of pneumonia, is much improved.

Dr. J. Q. Adams and family, of Bellevue, attended church here Sunday.

Messrs. Logan and Anderson are hauling hay on the Russell farm at Cedar Grove. They have enough work to keep them busy until spring.

Mr. Sol Nelson and son, of Goodland, were here Friday.

Prof. Burnham, of Bellevue, attended church here Sunday.

W. M. Wiat is improving slowly.

Wm. Anderson had business at Iron Mountain Saturday.

Highest price paid for Butter, Eggs and Poultry at Barnhouse's.
